

Gold Jewelry

Written by Daryle Lambert

Wednesday, 16 May 2012 13:28 - Last Updated Wednesday, 16 May 2012 14:05

Gold Diamond Opal Bracelet

There hasn't been a better time to buy Quality Jewelry in my life time in my opinion. Day after day I am seeing ladies and men sell true works of art in jewelry at the price of the gold or silver in the pieces.

This makes no sense to me because the craftsmanship in a piece does add value. A painting that measures 24 X 36 won't have the same value regardless of who painted it. The artist name on the painting can make a tremendous difference in its price. The same should be said of jewelry, meaning just because two bracelets weigh the same thing doesn't mean their value should be the same.

Lets take the bracelet above for instants. The weight of the gold in the bracelet is only worth $1 200 an today it would be priced at that but because it is quality the price is $4850

So as you are visiting the sales watch to see if there are quality pieces of jewelry that can be purchased at melt price. If so, you should be able to more than double your money and that is our goal, right.

With the price of metals dropping I think you will see the value of jewelry going up and that is where there is money to be made. Doubling you investment compared to making 15% on it should give you incentive to take another look at gold and silver jewelry. ☐